Take an artistic journey this summer

Art Trail offers public showcase of expression

If you are looking for something special to do this summer, come join us on the Art Trail. The Art in Public Spaces Committee of the Arts Council~Haliburton Highlands is hosting an art trail, which will be located in public venues throughout the Highlands. The Art Trail will showcase the amazing talent of our local artists.

Each year, the Art in Public Spaces Committee hosts art shows in select public venues or at pubic events, featuring the work of members of the Arts Council. Greg Gillespie, chair of the committee notes that "over the past two and a half years, the committee has been unable to plan events due to the restrictions of the COVID-19 pandemic. However, in the past, the committee has hosted several successful shows at the [Haliburton Highlands Brewing], the Haliburton County Folk Society's Winter Folk Camp, Sir Sam's Ski and Bike Fall Open House and various performances at the [Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion]. It is time to showcase our artists once again," he says.

This summer's county-wide Art Trail will focus on the theme of Renewal. The Trail will feature artwork that evokes a sense of re-awakening in the Highlands, as we emerge from the isolation and restrictions of the COVID-19 pandemic.

"Our local artists have been busy in their studios over the past two and half years working with their chosen medium. It is now time to celebrate their efforts and they are excited to share their work with you," says Gillespie.

Twenty-seven visual and literary artists have each contributed one piece of work to this project. Artists have been paired with host venues that are accessible to the public and are located throughout the Haliburton Highlands. Each piece of art is accompanied by a narrative text, photos and videos that engage and encourage the viewer to explore further, look deeper and learn more about the Haliburton Highlands.

The show will open on July 1 and continue until Oct. 15. It features the work of local potters, carvers, authors and artists, who work in oil, acrylics and watercolours. The show also invites you to visit venues that are now open for business and excited to welcome the public.

Tour the beautiful Haliburton Highlands either virtually or in-person and visit the host venues along the trail. Pick up a map guide brochure from any of the host venues, libraries, municipal offices or municipal welcome centres, or download the PocketSights app from Art Trail webpage on the Arts Council's website at www.haliburtonarts.on.ca. The brochure and the PocketSights app provide information on the host venue locations, the participating artists and inspirational insights. Come join us on the Art Trail!

Special thanks to our sponsors, the Haliburton County Development Corporation, the County of Haliburton and Canoe FM.

Yours Outdoors is hoping to get people rolling and blowing after they hosted a "trial run" for their event, Gears and Glass, which combines a scenic morning bicycle ride with an afternoon glassblowing experience, on Sunday, May 29.

The event began at 10 a.m. at the visitor information centre in Wilberforce and took participants on a 20-kilometre bike ride on the Prospectors Loop Trail, which "isn't for the faint of heart, but is a very beautiful ride," said lead cyclist Joleen Thomas.

The group then made their way to Artech Studios for a delicious lunch of homemade sandwiches and dessert and the opportunity to create their own glass cup in the glassblowing studio.

Kathy Manners, a participant of Gears and Glass, said, "This is my first Yours Outdoors experience, and I enjoyed it immensely. The combination of biking and glassblowing in unexpected but was very enjoyable. I've been learning about some of the other events that Yours Outdoors hosts, so I will be checking some of those out as well."

The experience is approximately seven hours long and can be customized to include more or less of either glassblowing or cycling.

For booking information and upcoming dates for Gears and Glass visit www.yoursoutdoors.ca/packages/pedal-your-arts-gears-and-glass.

HHHS Foundation June fundraisers focus on new IV pump equipment

LISA TOMPKINS
Special to County Life

NEW IV pumps for the HHHS hospital sites are a priority fundraising focus for 2022.

The new "Smart" IV Pumps will deliver needs for fluids, medication, blood and blood products. The system transmits key drug and IV therapy data using dedicated software, centralizing access to monitoring data. The Foundation will be raising funds this summer for this important equipment for emergency and in-patient departments in the amount of $160,000.

As was the case with the recently funded Vital Signs Monitors, these new IV pumps will also integrate with Epic, the Clinical Information System (CIS) implemented by HHHS in December 2021.

Launched in partnership with six other hospital organizations in Central East Ontario: Campbellford Memorial Hospital, Lakeridge Health, Northumberland Hills Hospital, Peterborough Regional Health Centre, Ross Memorial Hospital, and Scarborough Health Network, it's considered to be the largest, most transformative project in HHHS' history. The new CIS means:

- One digital record for each patient across seven hospital organizations in the central east region;
- Implementation of evidence-based best practices across the care continuum;
- Timely access to information to support clinical decision-making, including test results, medication information and other essential health information;
- Improvements in patient safety features, including bar code identity validation at the patient's bedside, and
- Less duplication and more efficient processes, contributing to a more sustainable health system.

It also means patient access to MyChart, a free, secure online tool providing patients and designated family members and partners in care at Haliburton Highlands Health Services access to medical records and personal health information. With MyChart, one can view test results and other health information from HHHS and its partner hospitals. More information can be found at www.hhhs.ca/hospital/mychart.

Some dedicated fundraising initiatives are supporting this campaign in June. Supporters of the Foundation's annual fundraising bear program will recognize many familiar faces in the new "Class Photo" puzzle, now available for $35 through the Foundation office, or online at hhhs.ca/foundation. It's a gathering of all the bears in the program since 1998, and the puzzle is created by the terrific local company, The Occurrence. For the month of June, a purchase of the puzzle will also include Humphrey bear, an extra $20 value.

Proceeds from the Foundation's ongoing monthly 50/50 lottery will also support the purchase of the new IV pumps. Half the funds raised each month will go to the winning ticket holder, with the other half supporting equipment purchase. The new lottery format has proven very popular since launching in June of 2021, and this win-win! opportunity will continue through this year.

The Foundation continues to be grateful to a generous community that supports these, and other fundraising initiatives for quality health care in the Haliburton Highlands.

Top 10 hints you are dealing with a fake intellectual

THESE DAYS the 24-hour news cycle and internet searches can make anyone look reasonably intelligent. But there are signs that this might not necessarily be the case. For instance, if that person is constantly alone but still wearing an "I'm with stupid!" T-shirt. Sometimes the signs are less obvious though. Here are the top 10 hints you might not be dealing with an intellectual:

STEVE GALEA
Humour Columnist

1. Sitting in chair, holding book upside down.
2. Excessive use of the word "indubitably."
3. Obviously fake British accent.
4. Constantly refers to writings of Leo Trollstoy.
5. Believes a think tank is an armoured vehicle.
6. Only Latin words he/she knows comes from Road Runner Show.
7. Maintains air of smug superiority even after he/she walks into lamp post.
8. Places pipe in mouth upside down.
9. Argues a globe is flat.
10. Understands the law of gravity but cannot seem put it to practical use.

Running on full

Shoulder seasons, spring and fall
Whisper softest, wildest call
Colours kindle painting, songs
Artist spirit just belongs
To this urgent energy
Sense of shift to what will be
Starker, hard and more extreme
Lowest cold or hottest dream
Winter, summer, deep and high
Northern lands' iconic cry
Still we know our hearts surge full
When those rainbow seasons pull
Humble outdoor spirits best
Though most other months stay blessed
Amble more in fall and spring
When full self feels everything.

Camps come alive with music!

Summer is just around the corner, and with it, summer camp season. The Haliburton HIghlands is home to 26 summer camps and has a long tradition of welcoming hundreds of campers and staff to many of our lakes. Music is an indisputable part of summer camp, so what better time to look at the role music plays in the camp experience.

CBC Sports broadcaster Scott Russell spent many years at Camp Kilcoo on Gull Lake as a camper, counsellor and assistant director. It is a place that remains near and dear to his heart. When asked about the role music played at Kilcoo, Scott said, "Music was at the very core of our lives at Kilcoo … It was instinctually part of camp's rhythm."

A trumpeter playing Reveille to start the day and Taps to end the day, songs around the campfire and singing at camp variety shows were just a few of the ways he describes music weaving its way through camp life.

Music at camp can build camaraderie and give pause for reflection.

Scott adds, "I found that singsongs could bring us together, and at times overcome lonesome feelings and homesickness … I think campers found comfort in music."

Sometimes an experience with music at camp can have a life-changing impact.

Jeremy Fisher is a Juno-nominated singer-songwriter. In 1989, he was an 11-year-old camper at YMCA Camp Wanakita on Koshlong Lake. He tells the story of his counsellor Greg performing a song in the camp dining hall that he had written to dispute Nestle's promotions for the new blue Smarties being the best. After the whole camp rallied behind the song, Jeremy writes, "... hearts and minds were changed that day. In about two minutes Greg sowed the seeds of doubt into a multi-million dollar marketing campaign and all he had to do was give us a better song. If there was a single moment in my life that I knew I wanted to become a songwriter, this was it."

Perhaps more than anything, summer camp conjures images of gathering around the campfire and singing songs that carry traditions from years gone by. Jeremy notes, "It's rare in our modern world to learn music via the oral tradition, but that's what happened to me with many of the songs I learned at camp. No recordings, just people who know the tunes and the words passing them on from one summer to the next. It's beautiful."

He included a song he learned this way on his kids' album Highway to Spell - Peanut Butter Sandwiches, by past staff member, Paul Stock. (Author's note: I can verify, this is a Wanakita classic!)

Making music together at camp creates bonds and reinforces the sense of community that camp is all about. Jeremy recounts returning to camp as an assistant counsellor, and singing and playing guitar being a big part of the way he felt he fit in at camp. Scott sums it up well, concluding, "Music gave us time to think and consider how fortunate we were to be there with friends … music was almost subliminal at camp. It was normal but it was essential because it made us feel safe, happy and secure".

Whether hosting a few dozen campers or several hundred, music is certain to be part of the daily rhythm of camps this summer. If you share a lake with one of our camps, you'll know that the lakes will be alive with the sounds of music. You might just want to sing along!

Submitted by Sue Shikaze, who spent a handful of years working at Camp Wanakita and Bark Lake, where she committed many John Denver songs to memory. This article is part of the Haliburton County Folk Society's monthly feature.

All together now!

My Son the Hurricane performs for an audience on Saturday, June 4 at Abbey Gardens. The energetic band from Niagara, which boasts a multi-horn, multi-drummer, multi-singer brass-funk group and includes 13-piece brass-dance crew, has been all over the world performing. They had people dancing outside the tent venue. For more information for upcoming programming at Abbey Gardens see their website: abbeygardens.ca. /Submitted by Sue Shikaze

HALIBURTON HIGHLANDS HEALTH SERVICES
Leaders in Innovative Rural Health Care

EXECUTIVE ASSISTANT

POSITION DESCRIPTION:
Reporting to the President and CEO, the Executive Assistant (EA) is responsible for providing all phases of administrative support and secretarial services for the President and CEO and Board of Directors, in a timely, accurate and professional manner, and to relieve the President and CEO of various administrative details. The EA relieves the President & CEO of various administrative details by managing administrative operations with respect to planning, scheduling (Outlook Calendar), documentation, inquiries, anticipating needs and suggesting appropriate courses of action, with minimal supervision. The EA also supports the President & CEO in managing operational priorities and requirements of the Board of Directors; this includes coordinating meetings, developing agendas, recording minutes, determining and acting on follow-up items for committees, preparing and submitting government reports, coordinating administrative and Board policies, and dealing with legal matters. The EA to President and CEO also provides coverage for the EA of Medical Affairs.

QUALIFICATIONS:
To be successful in this position, the candidate must possess post-secondary education in office administration or business management, or equivalent, and a minimum of three (3) to five (5) years direct experience working in an executive assistant or senior administrative support role, preferably in a health care setting. Experience with project management and planning would be an asset.

This position requires advanced keyboarding skills (minimum 70-80 words per minute), proficiency in Microsoft Word, Outlook, PowerPoint, Publisher, and Excel, as well as familiarity with technology related to teleconferencing and videoconferencing, document control systems, online reporting, and scheduling systems. Excellent verbal and written communication skills are essential, and minute-taking skills (using laptop/tablet during meeting) are a critical component of the role along the ability to work in a self-directed fashion. The candidate must be a self-starter, demonstrating self-confidence and initiative in dealing professionally, effectively and courteously with all levels of staff and contacts of the President and CEO, while maintaining diplomacy and confidentiality. This position also requires exceptional organizational skills and ability to manage multiple competing priorities in a fast-paced environment. As well, knowledge of meeting/parliamentary rules and the ability to summarize complex debates would be beneficial.

SUBMIT RESUME TO:

Human Resources
Haliburton Highlands Health Services
Box 115, Haliburton, ON, K0M 1S0
E-mail: hr@hhhs.ca
Fax: 705-457-2398

Haliburton Highlands Health Services thanks all applicants, however, only those selected for an interview will be contacted. If you are contacted by HHHS regarding a job opportunity or testing, please advise if you require accommodation. Information received relating to accommodation needs of applicants will be addressed confidentially.

Minden throws a bash for Canada's 125th birthday

WASN'T THAT A PARTY?

Hundreds of people came out to the Fairgrounds on Sunday to take part in the community picnic celebrating Canada's 125th anniversary. Among the attractions were musical entertainers, dancers, a horseshoe tournament, tug-of-war, clowns, games, antique cars, food, a demonstration by the fire department, face painting and a huge birthday cake. In the midst of all the activity, the crowd still found time to pose for a patriotic group shot.

Drainville opposes Sunday shopping law

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Despite the wishes of local businesses and the provincial government, MPP Dennis Drainville says he will vote against changes to Sunday shopping legislation.

In an interview last week Drainville, who is a member of the New Democratic Party, said he does not agree with his party's decision to back-off on restricted Sunday shopping, a move which was prompted by public opinion.

"In the last three years polling figures have shown a complete turn around," he said. "There is much more of a demand for Sunday shopping and the government is trying to respond."

Drainville also said the government is trying to deal with the fact that legislation designed to restrict Sunday shopping has been difficult to enforce.

Last year the government introduced changes to the Retail Business Holidays Act which prohibited most stores from opening Sunday, except where municipalities pass by-laws permitting the operation of tourism-related businesses.

However Premier Bob Rae has been under increasing pressure from Ontario's business community to review the NDP's position and allow Sunday shopping.

Opening for business on Sunday was seen as a way to bolster the retail sector, which has suffered during the recession, and supporters claimed that Sunday shopping would decrease the number of Ontario residents who head south to shop in the United States.

Recently Rae announced that his government would reverse its earlier stand and would introduce changes to the legislature which would permit wide-open Sunday shopping, and that these changes would be put before a free vote by MPPs. Until the vote is taken, stores will be allowed to open on Sundays.

Free from party discipline, Drainville says he will vote against his government and against Sunday shopping.

"Quality of life means people are afforded the opportunity to have certain periods of time off work," he said. "I understand why the government is doing this, but I believe there has to be a stand taken."

Drainville supported the concept of a tourism exemption which would have allowed businesses in Haliburton County to remain open while other areas of the province would have to remain closed.

But even within areas operating under the tourism exemption, Drainville does not favour unrestricted business activity.

"In our riding there is no need for every shop to be open on Sunday," he said.

The date of the vote has not yet been announced and Drainville says the government may face some tough opposition to the bill, from its own party members.

"There is a quite a split in the party," he said. "This is not something which is going to pass without a problem."

Drainville believes the lobby for Sunday shopping has been back mostly by large chains and the Toronto media, which stands to gain from increased advertising revenue.

Faced with competitors opening their doors on Sundays, Drainville says small businesses will have tough time trying to stay closed.
